FORMER ILLEGAL TRADING HUB REOPENS

7 JULY 1930 –

Notorious as a site for scandal, where disreputable gangsters escaped from the police, Abandoned Mansion was relaunched on 7 July 2022 on Sukhumvit Road.

The site of Abandoned Mansion was formerly a secret hub in the 1930s where gangsters gathered to socialise and discuss business matters that were often illegal; thus functioning as a covert headquarters for the trading of alcoholic beverages.

Since the crackdown, those involved in the dealings of Abandoned Mansion either fled or were jailed by the police, leaving the mansion abandoned since as the name implies. Abandoned Mansion was rediscovered years later and resurrected as a bar on 7 July 2022.

CLYDE BARROW AND BONNIE PARKER SHOT TO DEATH BY TEXAS OFFICERS

23 MAY, 1934 –

State police officers from Texas and Louisiana opened fire at notorious crime couple – Bonnie and Clyde – driving a stolen car on the motorway near Sailes, Louisiana.

In search for the infamous crime couple, Captain Frank Hamer – a retired Texas Ranger – was appointed as a special investigator to track them down, a process that took up to 3 months.

The couple was finally traced down to Louisiana where Henry Methvin's family resided (part of the Barrow gang). Hamer and the group of police officers hid along the country road until spotting Parker and Barrow; killing them once and for all in a hail of bullets.

U.S. IS VOTED DRY

MAD DOG COLL

Whiskey Bourbon, Kahlua, Coffee and Baileys

Vincent "Mad Dog" Coll, born Uinseann O Colla in 1908, was an Irish-American gangster notorious for his violent and unpredictable nature. He earned his nickname "Mad Dog" due to his ruthless approach to crime, including kidnappings, extortion, and contract killings during the Prohibition era. Coll was known for his willingness to use extreme violence, even against fellow gangsters, which made him both feared and hated in the criminal underworld.

His most infamous crime was the accidental killing of a young child during a botched attempt to murder a rival gangster in 1931. This act brought intense public outrage and increased law enforcement pressure. In 1932, Coll's violent life came to an end when he was ambushed and gunned down in a phone booth by rival gangsters, marking the end of one of New York City's most feared criminals

RONNIE AND REGGIE KRAY'S

White Rum, Malibu, Apple Juice and London Honey Syrup

Ronnie and Reggie Kray (October 24, 1933 – October 1, 2000) During the 1960s, the Kray twins formed an alliance with the Commission, the governing body of the American Mafia. The brothers were in contact with Meyer Lansky and Angelo Bruno, two influential New York mafiosi seeking to invest in London's nightclubs and casinos for money laundering purposes. Similar establishments in Havana had long served this function, but the Cuban Revolution of 1959 led to their closure, prompting the Mafia to consider London as an alternative. The Krays' ability to potentially influence the British government through the blackmail of political figures like Boothby made them attractive partners. Both Lansky and Bruno, known for their diplomatic approach by the standards of American organized crime, were deemed the most qualified to negotiate with the mercurial and irascible Kray brothers

EDNA MURRAY

White Rum, Malibu, Blue Curaçao, Honey Syrup, Lime Juice, Premium Sparkling Wine

Edna Murray, born in 1898, was an infamous American criminal known as "The Kissing Bandit." During the 1920s and 1930s, she became notorious for her role in a series of daring robberies and prison escapes. Murray initially led a troubled life, falling in with the wrong crowd and quickly becoming involved in a life of crime. She earned her nickname for her habit of kissing her victims during robberies, adding an unsettling touch to her crimes. Despite multiple arrests, Murray's knack for escaping from custody made her a legendary figure in the criminal underworld. Her most famous escape involved slipping out of a Kansas prison by climbing over the wall with a rope made of bed sheets. After years of living on the run, Murray was eventually recaptured and spent the rest of her life in prison. She passed away in 1966, leaving behind a legacy as one of America's most infamous female criminals.

FRANK SINATRA (AM STAGE)

Vodka, Rose Syrup, Cranberry Juice and Lime Juice

Frank Sinatra, a man of many talents, was not only famous for his smooth voice but also known for his connections to organized crime. Rumor had it that his rise to stardom wasn't just from talent alone, but with the help of shadowy figures behind the scenes. At AM Stage, it's said he would perform late into the night, mesmerizing the audience with his voice, while keeping secrets hidden in the dark. Sinatra's life was a blend of music and mystery, where his charm on stage masked the whispers of a life touched by crime. Want to hear more stories and music from that era? JOE BATTERS

Vodka, Orange Curacao, Cranberry Juice, Blood Orange Syrup and Lime Juice

Joe Batters, born Anthony Accardo in 1906, was one of the most powerful mob bosses in the history of organized crime in the United States. Accardo earned his nickname "Joe Batters" from Al Capone himself, after brutally handling a traitor within their ranks. His rise through the ranks of the Chicago Outfit was swift, thanks to his loyalty, strategic mind and ruthless efficiency.

Starting as a bodyguard for Capone, Accardo eventually took control of the Chicago Outfit in the 1940s, expanding its influence and operations across the country. Unlike many of his contemporaries, Accardo managed to avoid the spotlight, carefully maintaining a low profile while amassing immense power. Under his leadership, the Outfit thrived, diversifying into various illegal enterprises, including gambling, loan sharking, and labor racketeering.

WILLIE SUTTON

Blended Scotch Whiskey, Jack Daniel's Honey and Martini Bianco

Willie Sutton (June 30, 1901 – November 2, 1980) was a notorious bank robber who, despite his criminal life, was influenced by the vibrant music culture of the 1930s. Growing up in Brooklyn, he was surrounded by the sounds of jazz and swing that filled the speakeasies and hideouts frequented by the underworld. Music was often a backdrop to his criminal exploits, with jazz clubs being places where deals were made and plans hatched.

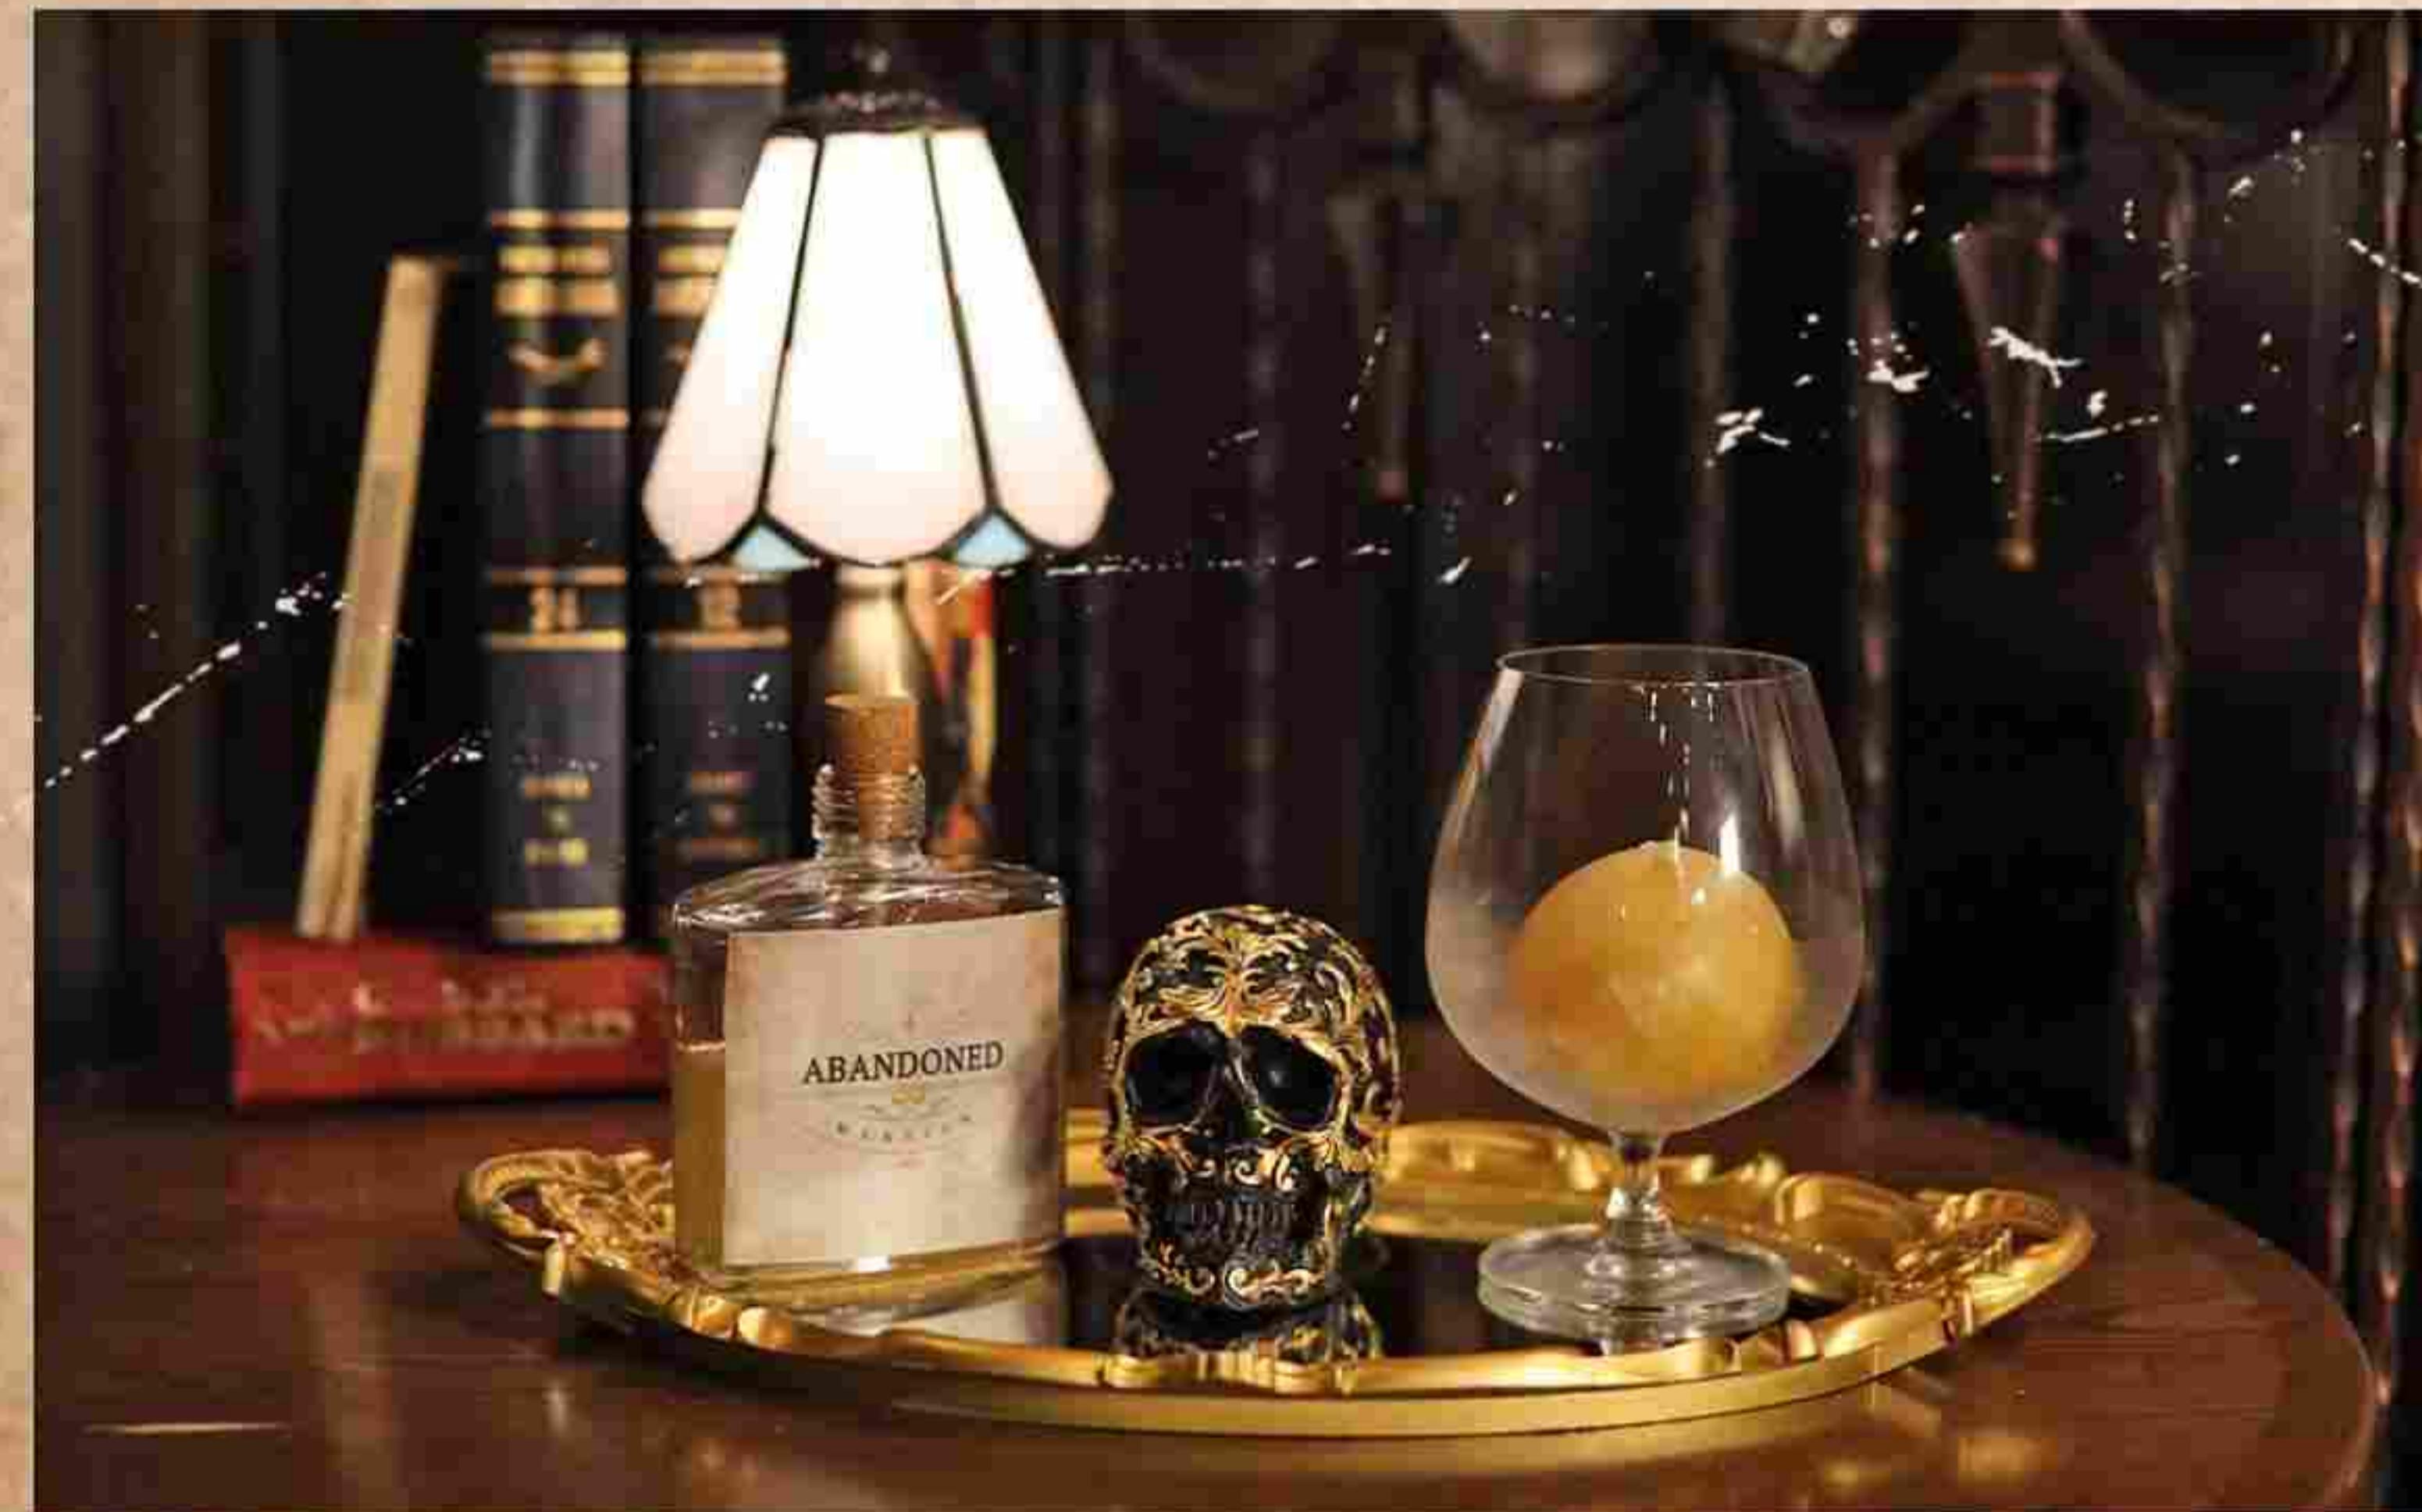

Although he wasn't a musician himself, Sutton appreciated the era's music and its association with the rebellious spirit. His clever disguises and gentlemanly approach to crime mirrored the smooth, improvisational style of jazz musicians at the time. Even during his time in prison, the rhythms of the outside world remained a part of his story, connecting him to the culture of his era. THB 560

QUEENIE'S CROWN

Pink Gin, Cranberry Juice, Rose Syrup and Lime Juice

Stephanie St. Clair's (December 24, 1897 – December 1969) story as the "Queen of the American Underworld" in the 1930s is a tale of defiance and power. In an era where women, particularly women of color, had little influence, Queenie carved out a kingdom for herself, stood up to the mafia, and became an icon in the criminal world. She was as feared as she was respected, a true queen of her time, reigning over Harlem with intellect, courage, and strength. Her reign may have ended, but her story of survival and triumph in the face of enormous challenges remains an inspiration - a tale of the woman who became the Queen of Harlem and left an indelible mark on American history. THB 560

NUSSBAUM AND WILCOXSON

Premium Brandy, Drambuie, Martini Rosso and Ice Ball Pineapple Flavour

Albert Nussbaum and Bobby Wilcoxson were a notorious criminal duo during the early 1960s, known for their string of daring bank robberies across the United States. Nussbaum, a former college student with a talent for weaponry and forgery, teamed up with Wilcoxson, a seasoned criminal, to form a partnership that would make them one of the FBI's most wanted pairs.

Their robberies were meticulously planned, with Nussbaum handling the technical aspects and Wilcoxson executing the heists with ruthless efficiency. The duo's crime spree left a trail of fear and chaos, as they moved from one city to another, always staying one step ahead of the law. THB 540

MACHINE GUN (JACK MCGURN)

London Dry Gin, Aperol, Lychee Juice and Peach Syrup

Jack McGurn (July 2, 1902–February 15, 1936), was an infamous hitman and key figure in the Chicago Outfit during the Prohibition era. Nicknamed "Machine Gun" for his weapon of choice, McGurn was known for his ruthlessness and precision. He became closely associated with Al Capone and played a significant role in the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, one of the most notorious gangland killings in history.

Despite his violent career, McGurn tried to pursue a legitimate life later on, even attempting a career in professional golf. However, his past caught up with him, and in 1936, he was gunned down in a bowling alley by rival gangsters, ending the life of one of Chicago's most feared mobsters. THB 560

WANTED

— CHARLES “LUCKY” LUCIANO —

A.K.A. SALVATORE LUCIANA WITH A REWARD OF THB 50,000

Notorious Italian - born gangster, Lucky is on the loose again! A notoriously dangerous criminal of the Five Points gang and National Crime Syndicate who is known to be guilty of compulsory prostitution.

ARREST WARRANT ISSUED TO BANGKOK HEIGHTZ!

An arrest warrant has been issued to Bangkok Heightz for the illegal distribution of alcohol against the National Prohibition Act that bans all manufacturing, sales and transportation of alcoholic beverages.

Bangkok Heightz, located on the 39th floor, of The Continent Hotel has been caught serving a selection of drinks that fuse local herbs and spices into cocktails that are enjoyed with uniquely crafted dishes of modern Thai cuisine high above the streets of Asoke road.

ALL OUR SOCIAL PLATFORMS

7 APRIL, 1933 – BEER NOW LEGAL AFTER 15 YEARS BAN!

Beer containing up to 3.2 percent alcohol became legal after over 15 years of prohibition. With news of the legalization, Anheuser-Busch sends their iconic Clydesdale horses to the White House to deliver a case of Budweiser, a media stunt that gets the public laughing.

16 AUGUST, 1934 – ALCATRAZ PRISON RECEIVES ADMITS ITS FIRST PRISONERS!

The first prisoners are delivered to Alcatraz Prison in San Francisco Bay, which houses mostly notorious bank robbers and murderers. The prison will become an iconic symbol of mystery, thrilling civilians with its stories of ghost, murders and escapes.

15 APRIL, 1935 – GLOBAL TELEPHONE CALLS NOW POSSIBLE!

The first around - the - world telephone conversation spans from New York to San Francisco, Indonesia, Holland, England and back to New York. The call marks a new era in technological advancement.
